

DONALD M. BARON

BETHESDA, MD

Mr. Baron is a Senior Consultant specializing in econometrics, operations research, and regulatory economics. He has led projects to evaluate the cost structure of multi-product firms, measure and analyze the efficiency of mail processing facilities, develop decision support systems for improving efficiency, and to calculate product costs for postal rate design. Mr. Baron has published numerous papers on applied econometrics. He has also worked as a load research analyst for a public utility and as an economist with the U.S. Department of Agriculture. He earned a B.A. (Phi Beta Kappa) from Grinnell College, Grinnell, Iowa, an M.A. from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor and a J.D. from Washington University, St. Louis.